Jockey Club Ice Hockey Generation Next 2016-2018

賽馬會冰球新世代發展計劃 2016-2018

Background

The main philosophy behind the “Jockey Club Ice Hockey Generation Next” program is to build a new generation of local ice hockey players to sustain continuous development of the sport in Hong Kong by bridging the gap between junior development and competitive ice hockey. Other than skills training, this 3-year program also emphasizes on character building, nurturing a group of role models who embrace Olympism values such as Respect, Friendship and Fair Play, with an aim to inspire the generations to come.

Other goals of Generation Next:

- To transit junior players from recreational level to higher playing level
- To prepare players for international standard competitions
- A new pool of players for future senior leagues and national teams
- Ice Hockey for life – encourage life-long participation in sport
- Be a team person – enhance interpersonal skills through ice hockey training and game in a team environment
- Be a true sportsperson with a positive attitude

More about the program:

How will the Program be run?

The “Jockey Club Ice Hockey Generation Next” program is the first ever team-based training for young players in Hong Kong ice hockey. Unlike most existing hockey training program in Hong Kong, the participants of Generation Next will train and play as a team on Wednesdays nights at MegaBox, Kowloon Bay throughout the 9-month seasons. The purpose of this is to encourage team bonding and to ensure that players will understand the importance of team work in ice hockey.

- There will be a maximum of 30 players in each team

Boys:
2 x U18 teams
2 x U16 teams

Girls:
1 x U18 team
1 x U16 team

Who can join?

Skaters between the age of 13 to 18 who possess basic ice hockey skills, and a will and desire to receive competitive ice hockey training.

All participants are expected to attend a try-out to assess their ability before joining the training. The try-out will be a skill test on skating and stick handling. We anticipate to form a 180-strong training squad, some of which will hopefully one day represent Hong Kong to compete internationally.

When and Where?

The “Jockey Club Ice Hockey Generation Next” program will kick-off in January 2016. Trainings and games will be conducted at Mega Ice, MegaBox, the only international-sized ice rink in Hong Kong. On top of on-ice trainings, monthly clinics will be provided with the support of the Hong Kong Ice Hockey Official Association to help participants better understand the rules and regulations of the game. Summer clinics will also be held, where participants can learn from stars players and help promote ice hockey to the local community.
